
1. For the standard model of citizen control of legislators, why does Arnold find it useful to distinguish between outcomes and policy preferences? What must citizens know about legislators for the model to work?

2. In Arnold’s alternative model of citizen control of legislators, what role do activists, interest groups, and challengers play?

3. Explain how citizens exert control over legislators in Arnold’s alternative model.