Homework assignments: Hacker text, Hacker online exercises, and course designed exercises. The Hacker exercises provide answers for you online and in the back of the book.

In this course, we will explore the fundamental elements and rules of English grammar for the purpose of strengthening students’ abilities to communicate effectively with confidence and clarity. Students will identify and correct errors in order to become astute editors of their own writing and gain an appreciation for how knowledge of grammatical principles and precision may enhance individual style and choice. The course focus is largely practical: Expo E-5 builds on hands-on exercises to achieve mastery of sentence structure and meaning. Among the areas the class will review are sentence construction, correct verb forms, pronouns, agreement, punctuation, restrictive and non-restrictive cases, parallelism, and logic. Short written assignments encourage students to apply and test their progress. Brief readings will offer students illuminating approaches to English usage, style, and syntax.

Punctual attendance and completion of all assignments, midterms, and exams are required. More than two absences may result in a failing grade for the course. The course grade will be based on performance on two midterms, short written exercises and the final exam, weighted in the following way:
20%  Midterm I
30%  Midterm II
10%  Written Exercises
40%  Final exam

Keeping up with weekly homework is essential. Students are expected to attend all classes having completed the Hacker or other exercises; we will review fresh exercises together in class. Most of the exercises accompanying Hacker’s Rules for Writers are available on Bedford’s website, which also provides answers. Please come to class prepared to defend your answers. Keep all handouts for review. Feel free to contact me with any questions. Our class isite has Shared Papers, Handouts & Drop Box essential to the course:

SYLLABUS: Fall 2015

Here is a tentative schedule of the semester’s assignments. I will make adjustments to meet the specific needs of this class. Please be alert to any changes in the syllabus that I may announce, such as a short reading I may distribute or an exercise I may add or subtract to match the pace of the class. Reading and writing assignments should be completed by dates indicated below.
